Synopsis: Two people, both married with small children, meet during vacation. The spouse of one of them arranges that the couples spend more and more time together. Back home one couple moves in the same house and what started as an attraction between two people becomes now a love affair. What happened with the four people and did they really want it to happen this way? The reader learns the story and the background of the love affair through a letter that one lover writes to the other once the love has faded.

»Cruise is a novel, that touches hearts, because it tells intelligent and with a big sensitivity about love in all its facets.« Buchjournal
