Thirteen-year-old Clay is a mudlark, one of the countless boys who scavenge in the mud on the banks of the Thames looking for objects they can sell for a living. Together with his friends, he spends the days by the river and wouldn't exchange his freedom for anything in the world.

One day, Clay crosses the threshold of Smith & Sparrow's Extraordinary Circus, which boasts of having "the last living wolf in the United Kingdom" in its menagerie. But wolves have been extinct for over three hundred years, everyone knows that.

And so, when Clay runs into that very creature, with its silver coat and amber eyes, he can hardly believe it. Mist – that's how the boy calls him – is a wild, fierce and indomitable beast. From that moment, Clay will try with all his might to set him free.

Even in murder, the music lives on.

When rising star Paris Secord (aka DJ ParSec) is found dead on her turntables, it sends the local music scene reeling. No one is feeling that grief more than her shunned pre-fame best friend, Kya, and ParSec's chief groupie, Fuse -- two sworn enemies who happened to be the ones who discovered her body. The police have few leads, and when the trail quickly turns cold, the authorities don't seem to be pushing too hard to investigate further. But nobody counted on Paris's deeply loyal fans, ParSec Nation, or the outrage that would drive Fuse and Kya to work together. As ParSec Nation takes to social media and the streets in their crusade for justice, Fuse and Kya start digging into Paris's past, stumbling across a deadly secret. With new info comes new motives. New suspects. And a fandom that will stop at nothing in their obsessive quest for answers, not even murder...
