Interactive educational modules

Over the years, we have specialised in the development of modular educational packages. The individual modules are didactically coordinated. They can be flexibly combined with each other depending on objectives, target groups and time available – no matter if for a single workshop or a series of events, whether on-site, digital or hybrid.

We differentiate between the modules according to their purpose within an event format: check-in and initial introduction to the topic, in-depth content and longer methods for the main part, discussion and presentation methods for developing results, and methods for evaluating and documenting results. Some modules allow a look at the controversial nature of a topic, others help to develop a common understanding or recommendations for action.

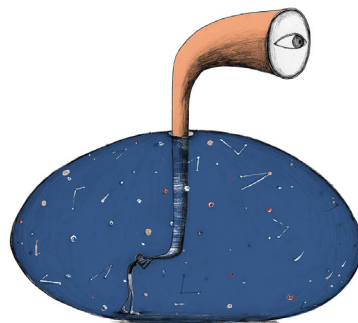

Point of view

Having fun makes learning more sustainable
Good ideas come about when people are actively involved and free to exchange ideas with each other. When they are having fun and are able to shape their own path to knowledge, they learn in a more sustainable way. That is why interaction and empowerment are the basic principles of our work - when we develop educational modules and serious games as well as when we conduct workshops and trainings.

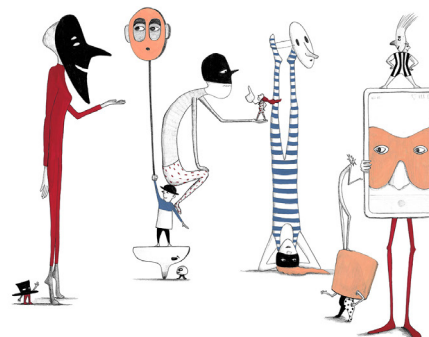

Accepting contradictions and learning to understand other perspectives
We encourage people to accept contradictions and develop empathy for other perspectives. Most of all, we like to raise questions and challenge perceived certitudes - and thus reveal the complexity

Strategy and scenarios

Professional consulting and moderation is essential - whether in strategy processes for the reorientation of an organisation, the development of different future scenarios or the initiation of social innovations with the help of design thinking. Instead of solutions or ready-made answers, we offer you methodical support in asking the right questions, working out the central challenges and identifying potential for change.

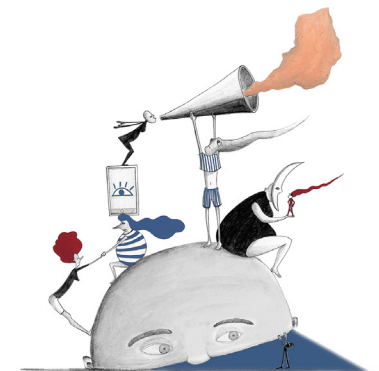

Our particular strength lies in the precise development of the right project design with regard to the target group and objectives. We take pride in optimising the conception and preparation of strategy and scenario processes and combining this with open, flexible facilitation that is focused on the needs of the participants.

Simulation games

Since day one, simulation games have been our core competence. We know from experience that exploring political issues and correlations in a playful way leads to more sustainable learning - and it's fun! At their best, our methods give participants an in-depth understanding of how politics works and help them develop empathy for other points of view.

We have now developed well over 100 simulation games on relevant socio-politically topics for (almost) all ages and target groups - and we continue to add more every year. We often combine simulation games with other interactive formats and use them flexibly for different target groups and group sizes. On-site and analogue, digital with our self-developed simulation game platform Senaryon or hybrid - everything is possible.

Conception and development

We conceive and develop analogue, digital and hybrid education and training formats. Our focus is always on the objective and the target group. On this basis, we decide on methods and formats in consultation with the client.

This can mean small modules for a short workshop, a complex simulation game or a package with different interactive modules for a whole seminar.

In most cases, we also implement the newly developed formats ourselves. Alternatively, we deliver the finished product for independent use - in combination with a handout and a multiplier training, if desired.

III.

Al costat de casa meva
hi havia una parada de bus
i una botiga depriment
on copiaven claus i compraven quincalla.
T'atonia un home gras,
de perpetu mal humor,
o la seva filla Jenny,
que no estava del tot fina.
Com que al bus et fan donar els diners exactes,
sempre entrava a la botiga a buscar canvi
i el senyor s'enfurismava:
"N'estic fart,
no fem altra cosa que remenar la caixa,
però tots sortiu com heu entrat!".
Un dia se'm va acudir de dir-li en broma
que deixés aquell negoci
i es quedés un percentatge
cada cop que donés canvi.
Em va mirar de dalt a baix.
"Creus que això em faria feliç?
A mi m'agrada copiar claus",
i va marxar empenyat cap a dintre.

En Simon em va deixar llegir una carta que en Bill Olsen li va enviar el 2014:

Es fa dur educar la pena
quan es torna un llangardaix
que s'enfila per l'esquena
i, al seu pas, cada costella
sembla pedra i tu estàs quiet, mirant el mar.
¿Que no veus que d'aquest cel
en pengen fruits arran de llavi?
Clava-hi, fondos, els ullals!
Però un no pot tastar el raïm
si la boca la té plena,
sempre vas mastegant pena
i et desgastes els queixals.
Els valents vigilen més les seves dents.
Deixa al sol desfer el fil prim que et cus la panxa,
treu-te els rocs acumulats als intestins,
fes-ne camins per 'nar aigua endins
i vine amb mi enllà de les boies.
