Question #1: Where and when do you read?

I usually read either in bed or on the couch, always with a cosy blanket.

Question #2: Which book have you most given as a present?

L'arte della gioia by Goliarda Sapienza and Lei dunque capirà by Claudio Magris are books that are very important to me, and I've given them as a present many times. In some occasions, I lent a friend my own copy and then happily decided to buy a new one instead of asking it back, because I like sharing with loved ones the notes I take on a book.

Question #3: What do you remember about your first book fair?

I remember being very excited and a bit scared by how big, colourful and busy it was. Most of all, I clearly remember the feeling I had when I first entered the Rights Centre: I was thrilled to be among the professionals!

Question #4: Tell us the resolutions you have made for this year.

Last year I started studying German and this year I want to get the chance to improve it, maybe taking a nice trip to a German speaking country.

Question #5: Tell us about a bad habit, an obsession or a particular attitude you have picked up since starting to work at TILA

Since I started working on audiobook and podcasts, I listen to them all the times! In a way this is good, because I get the chance to “read” while riding my bike, cooking, and in general when my hands and eyes are busy. On the other hand, I confess that I often listen even if I could read!
