Dear Friends,

Another year around the sun, and another exciting season here at Cicada HQ. We're delighted to be working with some old friends again. Sven Volker, who won the New York Times best illustrated children's book award in 2019 with A Million Dots, has a new title that playfully illuminates ideas of mindfulness and presence in his trademark stripped back style. Matthew Hodson, author of our beloved At This Very Moment, is releasing his joyous, madcap poetry upon the world. We are also working with emerging illustrators Bia Melo and Ollie Sylvester -- both young stars in the making.

We hope you like our new offerings. Do drop us a line if you have any questions or comments -- info@cicadabooks.co.uk.

Forwards always,

Ziggy

THE MELLONS BUILD A HOUSE

ROBIN JACOBS AND NIK NEVES

The Mellon family have outgrown their flat. It's time to move, but none of the houses they look at are quite right, so they decide to build their own house. Masha is an architect. She designs a house that accommodates the Mellons' needs, their budget, and most importantly, the environment. It is an eco-house.

The Mellons Build a House is hugely enjoyable picturebook that takes the reader step-by-step through house design and build. Heat pumps, solar panels, insulation and rainwater harvesting are all clearly explained, and brought to life in Nik Neves's warm, inclusive illustrations. A timely and essential read for aspiring young architects and construction-enthusiasts.

The Mellons need to build a forever home that is lean, clean and green!

MAMA MAMMALS

CATHY EVANS AND BIA MELO

This beautifully presented science book explains the facts of life by looking at sex and reproduction in mammal species. Through short, concise texts and warm, engaging illustrations, we learn about fertilisation, gestation, birth, breastfeeding and early parenting across the mammalian order. Did you know that, unlike other mammals, whale calves are born tail first, so that the mother can push them to the surface to breathe as soon as they emerge? Or that echidnas do not have nipples? Their young lick milk that seeps from pores in their chests.

Easy to engage with for kids as young as four, this is a convenient, informative and enjoyable way of learning about babies and where they come from.

Forget the birds and the bees, let's learn about how mammals make babies and look after them!

FORWARDS ALWAYS

MATTHEW HODSON

Forwards Always is a collection of poems to be read aloud with friends and loved ones. They are not complicated poems, but as a collection, they are varied in their shape and smell. You may need to read certain poems more than once before you get the hang of them. That's ok though. Practice them as you would a ballet, or omelettes.

Play with the book, it is a toy. Rotate it, squeeze it and wave it about. Wear it as a hat or try reading it upside down. Some poems may be improved by two readers taking turns or even reading aloud at the same time. You will figure it out. Please be aware that the book is neither waterproof or fire resistant. Dogs and goats will eat it, if given the opportunity. It tastes of paper.

ARE WE THERE YET?

SVEN VOLKER

Bear wakes up after his long winter's sleep and joins his friend, Butterfly, on a journey. 'Where are we going?' Asks bear. 'All journeys have secret destinations', says Butterfly. As they travel through forest, over hill and across a great river, Butterfly offers her wisdom about hardships, facing one's fears and living in the moment. Bear's natural impatience gradually softens into acceptance of the world around him.

As the seasons change, the friends find themselves once more in front of Bear's cave. Landscapes look different with different eyes and the end of one journey is the beginning of another.

This is a heartwarming book about friendship and about circles and cycles of life and being. It is a sweet and calming bedtime story that introduces Buddhist philosophies and values to young readers.

EPIC ANIMAL JOURNEYS: MIGRATION AND NAVIGATION BY AIR, LAND AND SEA BY ED J BROWN

Migration is one of the great mysteries of the natural world. With no engines or GPS devices, birds fly thousands of miles to their African feeding grounds, salmon cross oceans so that they may return to the rivers in which they were born and monarch butterflies spend their entire adult lives traveling from the grasslands of the Midwest to the forests of Mexico.

This book takes a close look at how and why different animals migrate. The science of migration and navigation is broken down into clearly understood texts, and then brought to life with beautiful packaging and vivid illustrations by Aquila illustrator, Ed J Brown.

An exploration of the remarkable and perilous journeys our planet-mates

Ed Brown is British illustrator and writer living in Leipzig. His striking, humour-packed illustrations have featured in Reader's Digest, Anorak Magazine, and Aquila Magazine, where he is the lead illustrator. This is his first book.

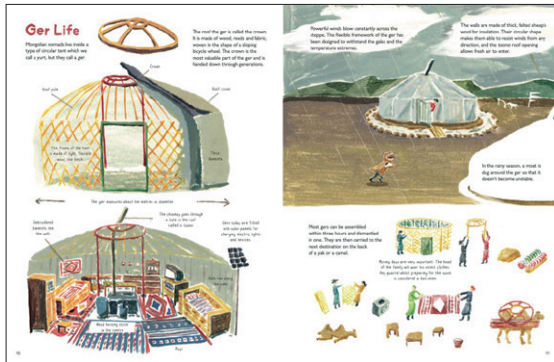

NOMADS: LIFE ON THE MOVE

KINCHOI LAM

A fascinating survey of seven nomadic societies around the world, exploring traditional ways of living that are currently at threat from globalisation and climate change.

With delicately beautiful monoprint illustrations bringing the material to life, we learn about the Sama Bajau, fishing nomads from the Philippines who spend months on end at sea, the Yanomami peoples of the Amazon rainforest, whose connection to the forest around them informs every aspect of their lives, and the Nenets of Siberia, who follow their reindeer through blasting winds to the very edge of the Arctic Circle.

A refreshing and timely insight into human traditions and cultures that connect us to our distant ancestors and to simpler ways of living.

A beguiling and poetic look at nomadic lifestyles around the world.

SNAIL TRAIL

ZIGGY HANAOR AND CHRISTOS KOURTOGLOU

Marjorie is a happy snail. She loves her family and friends, but sometimes she just needs a bit of alone time. The problem is, as soon as she finds a quiet space, someone follows her trail of slime and tracks her down. Enraged, Marjorie wanders this way and that until she is entirely, marvellously lost. But the joys of solitude are short lived, and Marjorie swiftly realises that she can't find her way back. Luckily, she stumbles on a good friend who helps her on her way and offers her some sage advice.

This is a timely and relatable book that brings to life the disjunction between our introvert and extrovert selves, so common in a post-lockdown era. The book naturally follows on from the critically acclaimed Pocket Chaotic, and is brought to life in the lively watercolours of Christos Kourtoglou.

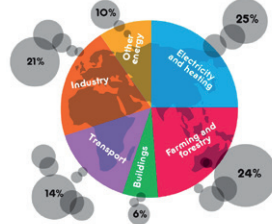

Marjorie just wants some quiet time, but her family and friends won't leave her alone!

WHERE DO OUR GREENHOUSE GAS EMISSIONS COME FROM?

CHANGING WORLD: COLD DATA FOR A WARMING PLANET

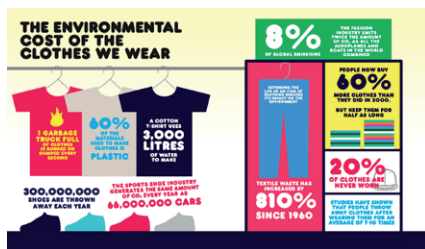

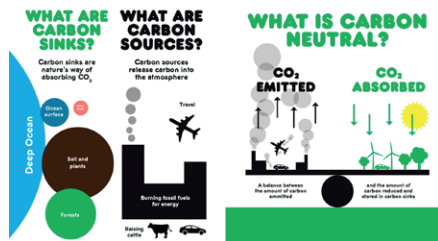

DAVID GIBSON

As the impacts of climate change become ever more visible, it becomes ever harder to work out what it all means and how best to address it. This book of infographics illuminates the realities of climate change in hard numbers, bright graphs and unequivocal directness.

- How will rising sea levels affect us?
- Is it better to stop eating red meat or to stop driving a car?
- What industries create the most emissions?
- How do renewable energies compare to one another?

David Gibson is a master of visualisation. Without sugar-coating or fear-mongering, this is a book that uses facts to conveniently illuminate inconvenient truths, in such a way that they may be understood by children and adults alike.

THE UNOFFICIAL GUIDE TO THE ANCIENT EGYPTIAN AFTERLIFE BASTET THE CAT AND LAURA WINSTONE

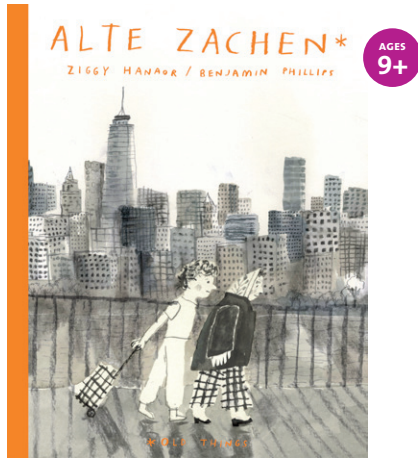

Bastet, the Pharaoh's cat, is here to take you on a journey through the mystical death rituals of Ancient Egypt. Starting with some routine disembowelment and mummification, she explains everything from the separation of your soul to your various tomb options. Together, you will face the gods in one final judgement – the weighing of the heart. Bastet will make sure you have everything you need on the other side, because, it turns out, you can take it with you after all!

This is a light-hearted, but nonetheless informative insight into the fascinating beliefs and traditions of Ancient Egypt. Striking collage illustrations by Laura Winstone bring a freshness of tone to a subject matter that might be ancient, but never grows old.

An enjoyable book that keeps readers involved with bright colours and animated images... to be kept in classrooms or on the shelves for browsers.

Laura Winstone is a Norwich based illustrator and a recent graduate of the CSABI degree in children's book illustration. She was awarded second place in the Macmillan Illustration Prize 2021 for her book The Catmolean Museum, on which this book is based.

ALTE ZACHEN / OLD THINGS

ZIGGY HANAOR AND BENJAMIN PHILLIPS

This graphic novel follows 11-year-old Benji and his elderly grandmother, Bubbe Rosa, as they traverse Brooklyn and Manhattan, gathering the ingredients for a Friday night dinner. Bubbe's relationship with the city is complex – nothing is quite as she remembered it and she feels alienated and angry at the world around her. Benji, on the other hand, looks at the world with clear-eyed acceptance. As the story unfolds, we catch glimpses of Bubbe's life and loves, gradually gaining an insight into the tender soul that lies behind the cantankerous exterior.

This is a powerful, affecting exploration of Jewish identity, of generational divides, of the surmountability of difference and of a restless city and its inhabitants.

I MISS YOU: ACTIVITIES FOR YEARNING HEARTS
GIOIA GUERZONI AND ROSIE LEECH

This poetic little volume proposes a series of conceptual activities to help the reader work through the sense of loss that arises when someone or something is missing from their lives.

Write a letter to yourself from the person that you miss. Describe what they are doing and what they see from their window. Feel their body on the chair, their breath as they concentrate... Fold the letter up many times like a seed and bury it in the ground so that it can turn back into the tree it once was.

A timely, quirky little title, which captures the sense of yearning for the people, places and things that have been left behind in this strange period we're living in.

exercises to help readers process grief and longing.

CAT EYES AND DOG WHISTLES: THE SEVEN SENSES OF HUMANS AND OTHER ANIMALS

CATHY EVANS AND BECKY THORNS

This book takes young readers step by step through the biology of the human sensory organs and then compares them to those of the animal kingdom. Did you know that, unlike the other senses, smells are delivered directly to the parts of our brain that are responsible for memory and emotion? Or that a cow has about 250,000 tastebuds, compared to a mere 30 of a chicken?

Beautifully presented, this book will get kids thinking about all the amazing things their bodies can do.

With striking, colorful illustrations and interesting factoids, it provides a fine introduction to the senses.

UNDERGROUND: SUBWAY SYSTEMS AROUND THE WORLD

UIJUNG KIM

A playful search-and-find book of 10 underground systems around the world. Alternating shortened pages create an inside-outside effect, so that you 'enter' the train to find the cultural signifiers of each city; a pretzel, an apple and the Empire State Building on the New York Subway, for example.

Korean illustrator Uijung Kim's busy, colourful illustrations are joyously contemporary, appealing to train-obsessed children as well as a wider audience.

A fab little book this, and another brilliant title in Cicada's increasingly essential early years non-fiction range.

GUT GARDEN: A JOURNEY INTO THE WONDERFUL WORLD OF YOUR MICROBIOME

KATIE BROSANAN

Within our bodies hides an entire world of microbes that digest our food and protect our immune systems. Scientists are only now discovering the links between our microbiome and health issues ranging from allergies to multiple sclerosis. Through Katie Brosnan's personable illustrations, we follow the digestive process, learning about the role of microbes at every step of the way.

An engaging and beautiful introduction to a fascinating frontier of science.

Effectively makes the case that we are all biological boardinghouses... plenty to chew on here.
