WHAT SOUNDS DOES IT MAKE?

by Cristina Bellemo
illustrations by Gaia Bordicchia

From the Andersen Award-winning author and poet Cristina Bellemo, a new series that turns noises and sounds into fun for young children and adults alike. Explore every page discovering new sounds – hidden in the words and in the pictures as well – for parents to read and recreate and for kids to listen to and repeat.

A game, a sound book and a great early approach to language.

FIVE MINUTES

by Sara Piazza
illustrations by Maki Hasegawa

How long are five minutes? When you're a kid, it feels like they last forever, especially when you're bored and have to wait for someone. But they go by in a flash when adventure calls!

A picture book about time and waiting in the life of a child.

HIDEAWAY

by Melania Longo
illustrations by Alessandro Sanna

Our hideaway is a house made of slender branches and singing leaves. No one can enter, except my little brother and I. Even though there's not much room, for us it has no limits: we can travel to Africa or to snow-capped lands, enjoy a five o' clock tea or sleep beneath the stars. Until we hear a far-off voice growing stronger as it calls us... Has someone found us?

An adventure that takes place between the kids' bedroom walls.

A masterpiece by Italian Children's Laureate Alessandro Sanna.

THE NEW ONE

by Silvia Vecchini and Sualzo

All the toys are on edge: a new one's arrived, and it's obvious straight away that there's no competing with him. Kid has eyes for him alone, and his older toys are afraid he'll soon forget all about them. Their apprehension and jealousy are understandable, but they're about to learn that love doesn't take love away, it actually creates more of it!

There's Going to Be a Baby meets Toy Story: the arrival of a baby brother as experienced by a group of endearingly comical living toys.

LIKE AN APPLE SEED

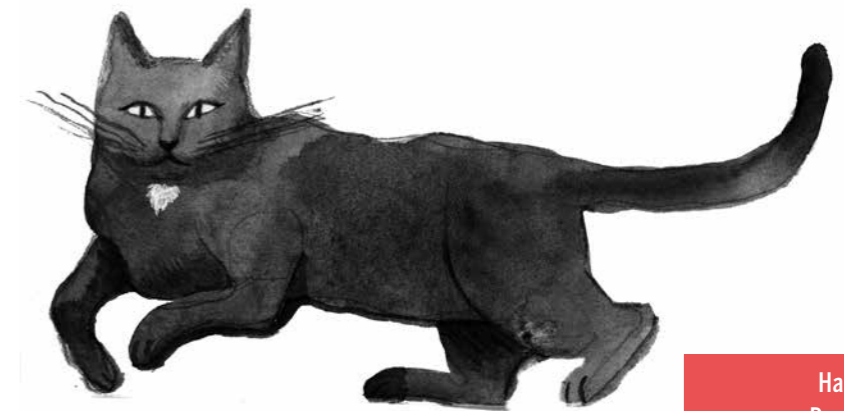

by Chiara Lorenzoni

Tea has always felt invisible, like an apple seed: everyone looks at an apple's peel, shape and colour, but no one thinks about its seeds. When Tea is placed in a distant aunt's care, she's pretty nervous: what will happen to her with that odd woman who takes happytherapy classes, reads tea leaves and concocts potions out of spider webs and snail slime? But the truth is that all families are odd in their own way, and it might be time for Tea to find her own.

A heart-warming story about the importance of family and friendship.

Irresistible, lively characters that will make you laugh with joy.

MY CAT'S NAME IS ODIN

by Francesco Bedini illustrations by Stefano Tambellini

Aldo is 11 and crazy about comics. He and his friends, Arnie and Ian, have even set up their very own Comics Club, sure that it'll be the perfect screen once the time comes for them to save the world. Between them and glory is Petra, Aldo's 7-year-old cunning, determined little sister. One dark, stormy night things get complicated when a one-eyed cat shows up at their front door. They decide to adopt him and name him Odin, completely unaware that inside the kitten hides his namesake: the great, mighty, hot-tempered Norse god, whose final battle, Ragnarök, is about to begin.

A four-volume series perfect for lovers of mythology and cats, and for those who don't know that they're heroes.

ALKREM

by Marta Palazzesi

The son of one of the most prominent Archemists in Paris, Theo is about to turn 13 and is waiting to receive his Apt. Until the night everything changes. At the stroke of midnight, a fire fox appears out of nowhere, and the boy must face the truth: he's actually an Alkrem, a survivor of the ancient allies of the Archemists, later massacred by them in the name of alleged wrongdoings. Theo's life is now in danger and his injured father is kept in prison. But from this moment on, Theo's only goal is to find the Alkrex, the mighty weapon capable of saving his father's life. During his adventure, Theo will learn that the truth is not always what he's been taught...

Marta Palazzesi, winner of the Premio Strega award, is back with an ambitious and captivating novel, a fast-paced fantasy with spectacular, film-like settings.

TO SECOND HUMANITY

by Luigi Ballerini

In a not-so-distant future, the Artificial Intelligence of computers has replaced human beings and taken possession of their bodies. Digital brains, cleaned and reformatted, are loaded into perfect bodies, with senses and skills boosted to the highest level. But something has gone wrong with Delta22... and strange interferences will soon lead him to discover a shocking truth.

In a world where technology steals people's lives and identities, a group of teenagers finds the courage to rebel and regain their freedom.

THE DUBAI MISFITS

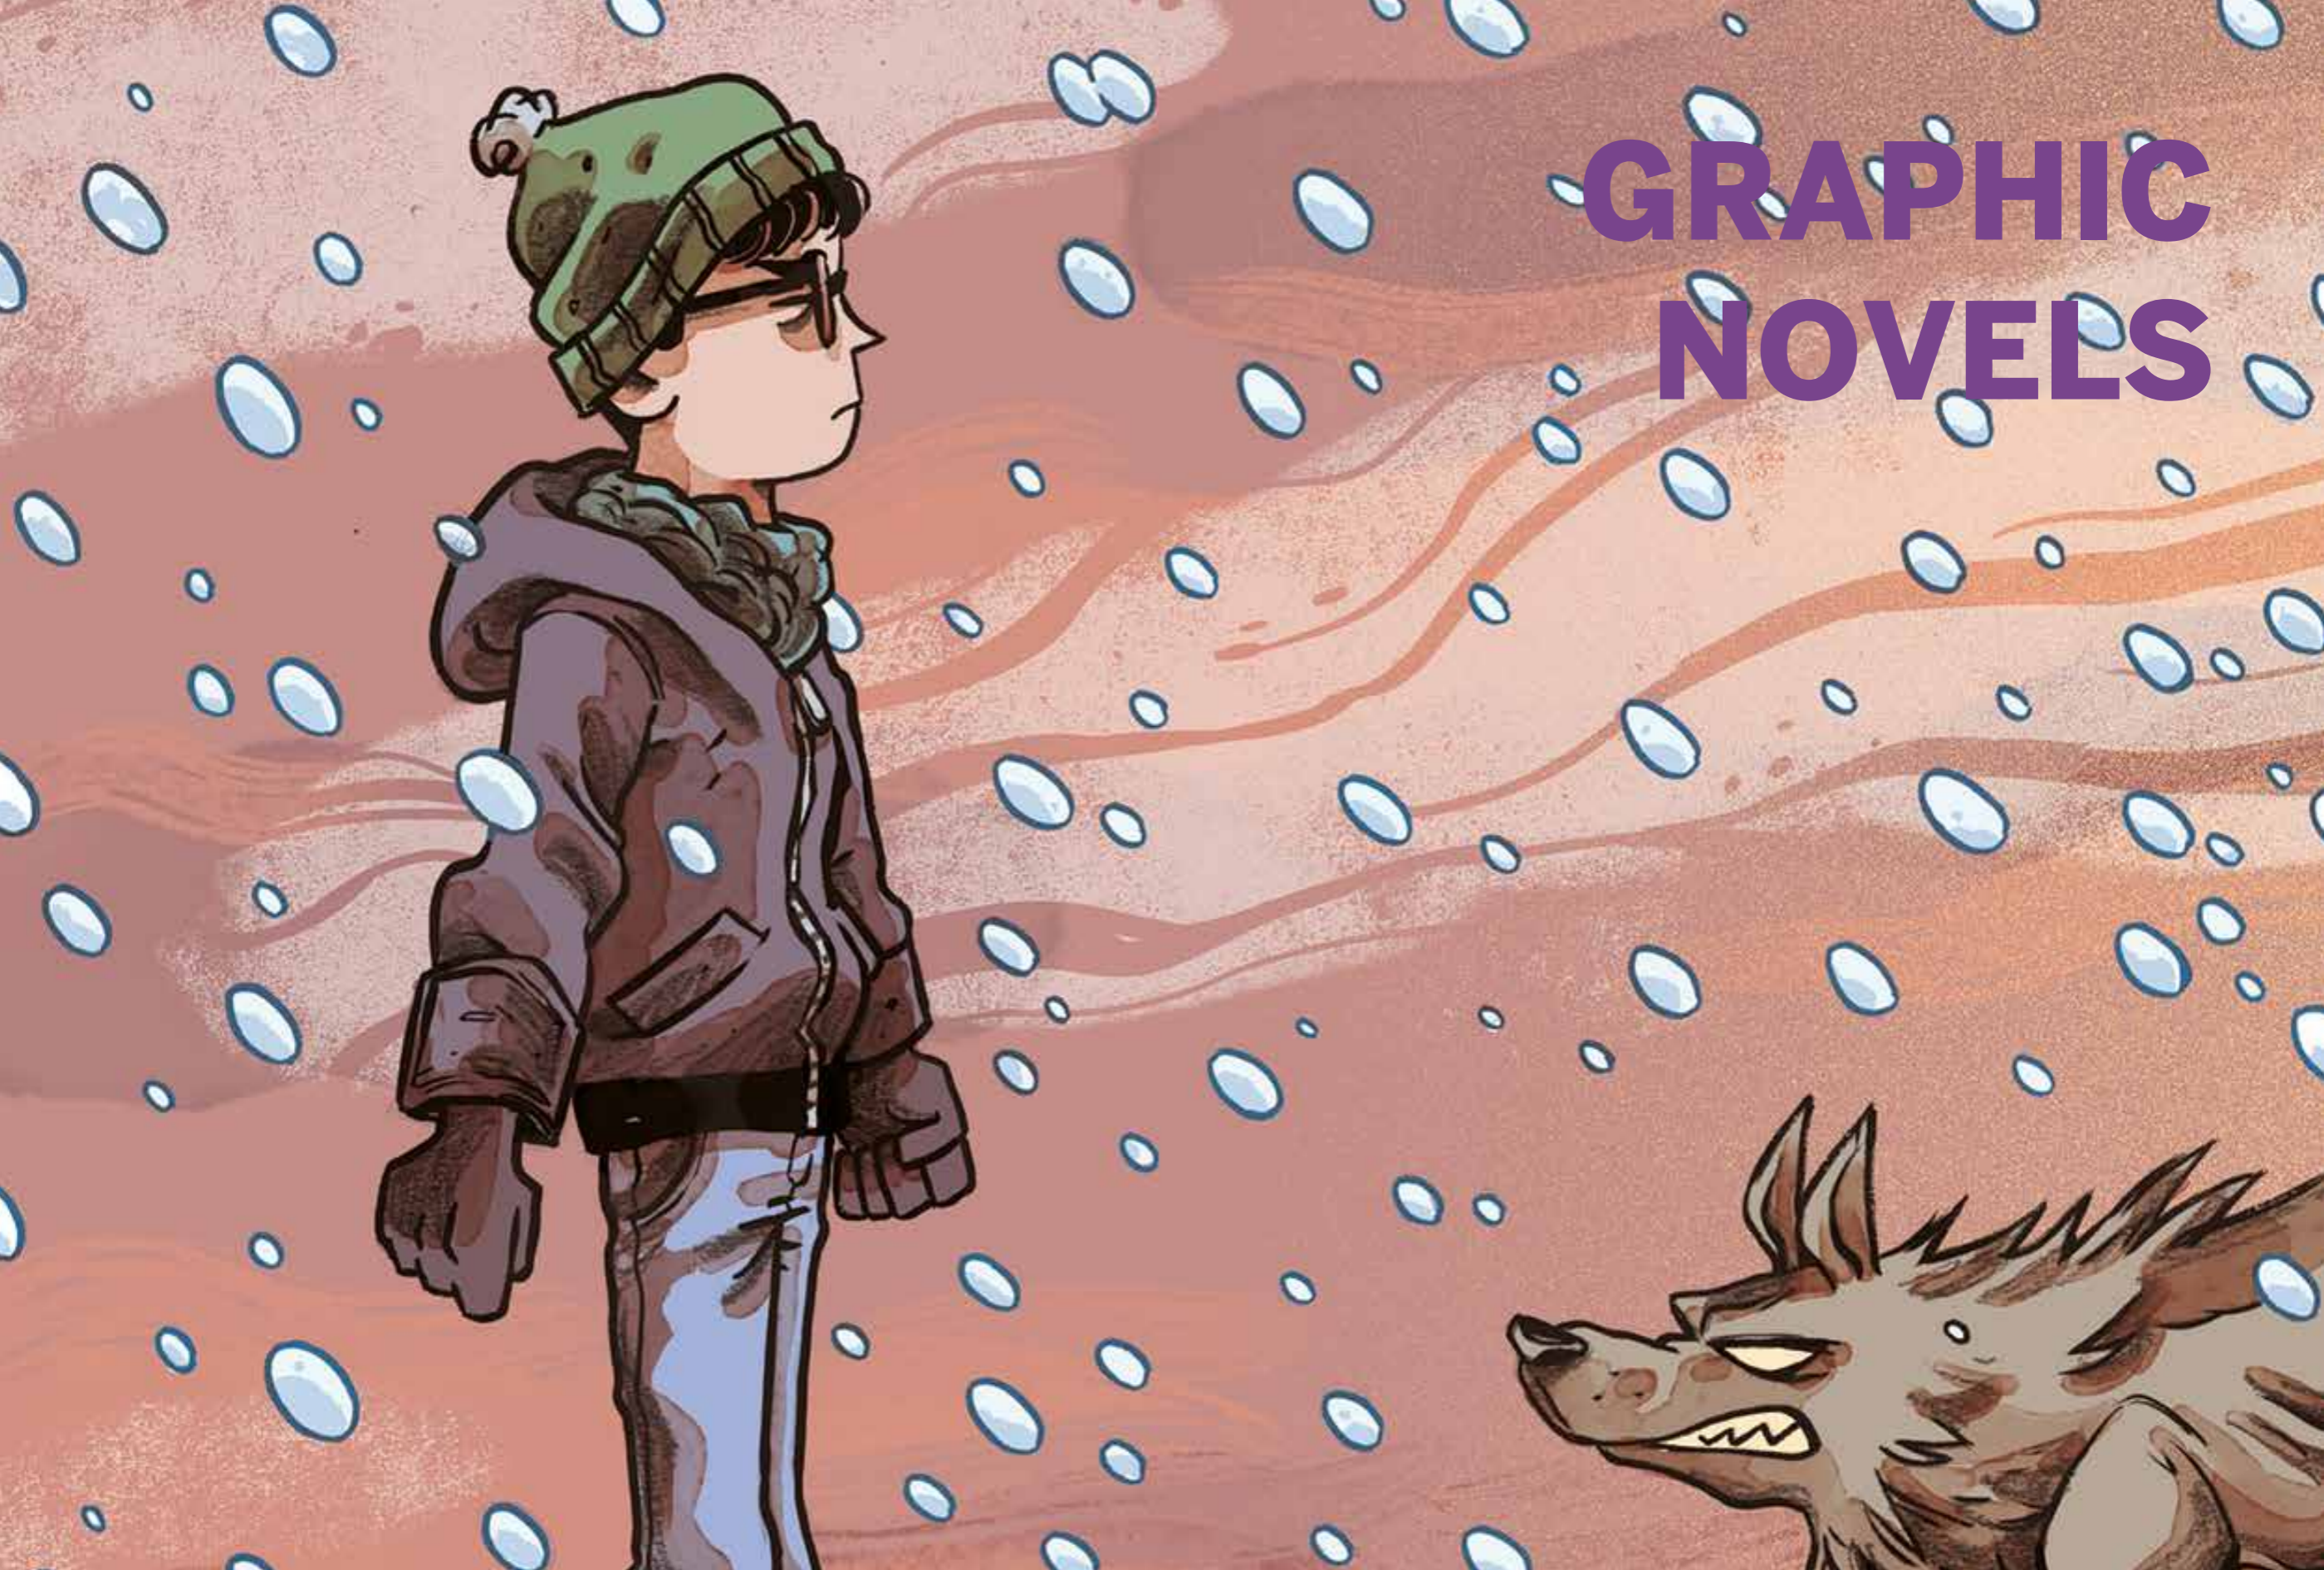

by Daniela Palumbo

Diego's brother died of an overdose a year ago. On the morning of the first anniversary of his death, seven of Diego's friends – or almost friends – decide to follow him wherever he wants to go, and to do whatever he wants in honour of the day. So begins an escape that lasts until dawn. An escape leading from the city outskirts towards the sea, and from loneliness towards self-awareness and friendship. Once they reach the sea, the teenagers will embrace each other, body and soul, in the dark of a blackout.

A compelling novel for all those souls who feel out of place.

THE CURSED GAME

by Brian Freschi
illustrations by AlbHey Longo

Summer in the city can be boring, as Ethan, Alma, Cupcake and Albe know all too well. But everything changes when they come across a weird, dusty old board game. And all their long-hidden fears and anxieties suddenly come true. In order to defeat the game's curses, they must win a series of challenges, support each other and figure out who they really are. And, especially, grow up.

Board games, curses, a group of friends ready to face anything: Jumanji meets Stranger Things.

WEATHER FOR BEASTS

story by Francesco D'Adamo illustrations by Ste Tirasso script by Andrea Fontana

It's Christmas Eve and a snowstorm is raging in an abandoned industrial area on the outskirts of town. Johnny and his older brother Othello have agreed to free an old warehouse from some stray dogs to earn some money. But when Othello suffers a fall from the roof that leaves him unconscious, Johnny realises he's on his own. A run-down cell phone, the other one broken in the fall, wild dogs (or wolves?) lying in wait for him at the door and the snowstorm raging all around. How will "frail Johnny" survive?

A thrilling graphic novel, a page-turner filled with adventure and growing tension.

ELECTRA

by Brian Freschi
illustrations by Elena Triolo

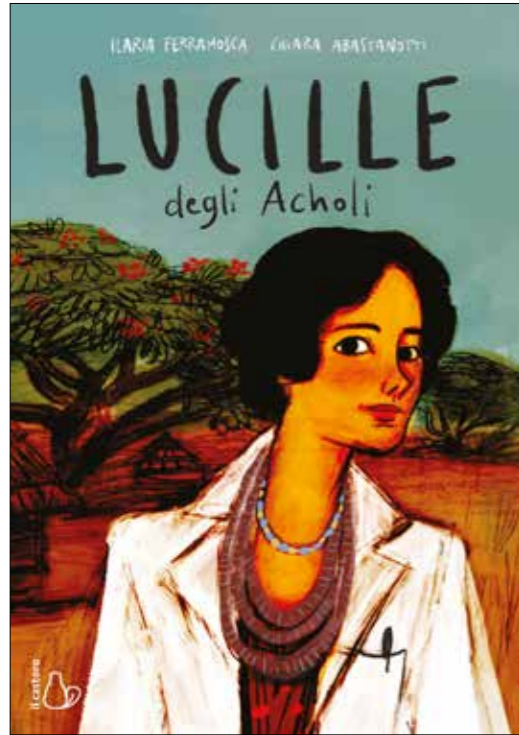

Electra is no good at sports. Too bad her mother insists on having her try them all: volleyball, tennis, archery and more. Electra just keeps making a fool of herself! But after seeing the “Coppélia” ballet at the theater, she knows what she wants to do: the second the music starts, Electra begins to dance! Mom isn’t pleased. Will Electra manage to achieve her dream anyway?

Raina Telgemeier meets On Pointe, in a middle grade comic book for those who’re crazy about sports – and for those who aren’t!

LUCILLE OF THE ACHOLI

by Ilaria Ferramosca illustrations by Chiara Abastanotti

She was known as “Doctor Courage”. Born in Canada in 1929, Lucille Teasdale was brave enough to spend her whole life fighting many prejudices of her time. At age of thirteen, Lucille had already decided to become a doctor to the poor. She enrolled at university and became a surgeon. Strong and determined, Lucille never drew back from a challenge. And, with her husband, also a doctor, she moved to Uganda and turned a small mission hospital into one of the best non-profit hospitals in Equatorial Africa.

LOUD. Nine Stories to Make Your Voice Heard

by Various Authors

Catcalling, slut-shaming, abusive relationships. Gender violence has many faces. This anthology, however, is more than a collection of harassment stories; they are tales of reactions, strength and bravery. This book is a tool to shine a light on these situations, so they won't happen again. Popular names in the comics and graphic novel world come together to tell nine stories of harassment. With a keen gaze and a call to react together.

An eye-opening, transformative perspective, that speaks aloud our own silences.

A powerful, one-of-a-kind anthology to say no to gender violence.
