1993-2023

Happy Anniversary, Il Castoro!

1993

OUR FIRST 30 YEARS

1993

Like all fairy tales, this story starts in a castle. The very first Castoro headquarters are located in the mezzanine of Belgioioso Castle! A group of friends takes over a publishing trademark of cinema books and relaunches it.

Movies, movies, movies! Il Castoro is the official publisher of the Venice Film Festival. "Castoro Cinema" is still the vastest series ever made about directors, with over 250 monographic titles.

1993-1997

1999

Il Castoro starts publishing children's books, aiming for the highest quality, always trying to be close to children's needs and tastes. The first books are...a complete failure, but the following ones are a great success and awards start pouring in.

2007-2008

Crucial years for Il Castoro! We start publishing the Diary of a Wimpy Kid series and acquire La Libreria delle Ragazze e dei Ragazzi in Milan, the oldest children's bookshop in Italy.

2014

We engage with graphic novels for kids, a resounding success from the outset. We start with Raina Telgemeier, and we are now publishing about twenty graphic novels per year, including Italian authors and translations.

2017-2018

We acquire two sister companies: Edizioni Sonda, whose main themes are ethical diets, civil rights, social inclusion, environmental responsibility; and Tunué, whose focus is graphic novels for junior and adult readers.

Il Castoro is the leading independent children's book publisher in Italy with a catalogue of over 800 children's books and an average of 870,000 copies sold per year. Our books have been translated into 39 languages and... we can't wait to see what's next!

FICTION

NOWHERE GIRL

by Sara Allegrini

A girl wakes up and finds herself alone in an unknown place in complete darkness. She is aware of herself, but she can't remember who she is or even her name. All around her there is nothingness. In this emptiness, the story of Mel appears, and the girl watches it as though it were a live-action film. But why can the girl see Mel? And what role does Julian – a kind, shy boy who sometimes appears alongside Mel – really play?

«You don't exist. You are nobody. But the light keeps shining more brightly; just let it in.»

A thrilling novel with a hint of romance and of the paranormal.

A THOUSAND SPECKS OF LIGHT

by Silvia Vecchini

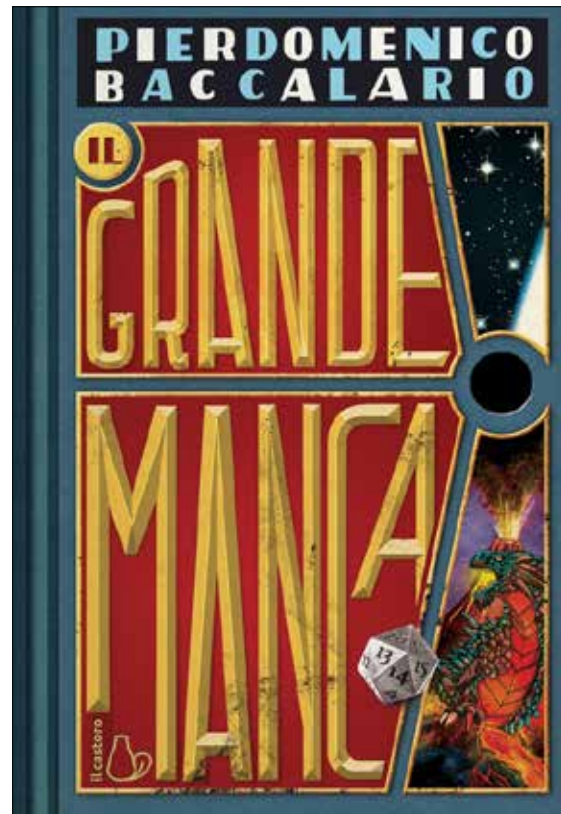

Danny is a 12-year-old boy who has lost his mother, a skilled gymnast. He now lives with his father, who loves him but doesn't know how to show it. Danny has a great – though secret – passion: rhythmic gymnastics, a sport generally considered for girls only. Ambra and Radu are the friends he can count on, as they support him in cultivating his talent. But what will people in their small town think of a boy who loves to twirl gracefully in the air? It might be time for Danny to fly even higher – if he wants to follow his dreams and go beyond the world's superficial eyes.

A genuine and moving story about sports.

Billy Elliot for the new generations!

THE MISSING PIECE

by Pierdomenico Baccalario

We're all missing something. Something we can never find even though we keep on searching. 14-year-old Victor misses his brother Fred, who is unconscious at the hospital, after a mysterious accident at home. Since he can't make up for this absence any other way, Victor looks for his brother in the traces that he left behind: Fred's four best friends, his incomplete book and comic collections, role-playing games and even a dark matter anomaly detected by their parents (both physicists). But did he ever really know his brother? In exploring that beloved figure, Victor also learns something about himself.

The only novel in the world with a hole in it.

A plot that brings together thrills, action and role-playing games.

WHAT WE'RE SCARED OF

by Davide Musso

Living in the red houses in the dirty suburbs of a big city, Micky doesn't have any dreams – nightmares, maybe – and spends most days hanging out with Tommy and a group of other aimless 16-year-olds. There are no written rules in the world of the red houses, but everyone knows that the "foreigners" had better keep out of their way. But when Pablo arrives, it's obvious that he doesn't really care about any of these rules.

Micky and Pablo soon learn that they share the same hurts and scars. And they realise that another life is possible, if they start dreaming big again.

The story of a harsh adolescence told with complete honesty.

A genuine and down-to-earth novel for young readers.

THE FORBIDDEN HOUR

by Lucia Stipari

Philomena, 14 years old, returns to the house that used to belong to her grandmother, at the seaside. She has trouble accepting her grandmother's death and the only way she can make all her anger go away is wandering outside in the early afternoon hours. It's the so-called "forbidden hour", when the sun shines at its peak and you'd better stay inside and rest, because strange things might happen...

That's when Philo meets Damien: who is this boy that stirs up so many feelings in her? Why doesn't he have a shadow, like a demi-god? While Damien's mystery slowly unfolds, Philomena learns to let go and enjoy every second.

*«Is this how love happens?

ALKREM

by Marta Palazzesi

The son of one of the most prominent Archemists in Paris, Theo is about to turn 13 and is waiting to receive his Apt. Until the night everything changes. At the stroke of midnight, a fire fox appears out of nowhere, and the boy must face the truth: he's actually an Alkrem, a survivor of the ancient allies of the Archemists, later massacred by them in the name of alleged wrongdoings. Theo's life is now in danger and his injured father is kept in prison. But from this moment on, Theo's only goal is to find the Alkrex, the mighty weapon capable of saving his father's life. During his adventure, Theo will learn that the truth is not always what he's been taught...

Marta Palazzesi, winner of the

CAIUS THE STRAY AND THE MEANING OF LIFE

by Flavia Moretti illustrations by Ilaria Urbinati

11-year-old Caius lives in an orphanage and keeps bad company. Even if he can't read very well, he gets a summer job at the Story Newsstand. Caius expects to be selling newspapers and comics, but he doesn't know that the Story Newsstand is a magical place where anyone can come by to tell their sufferings, ask advice or listen to someone else's story in exchange. In view of a move, Caius must make a list of all the stories that have passed through. One by one, they all leave him something, from a new passion for reading and writing, to the desire to start over.

A story about stories, a great contemporary fairy-tale.

MY CAT'S NAME IS ODIN

by Francesco Bedini illustrations by Stefano Tambellini

Aldo is 11 and crazy about comics. He and his friends, Arnie and Ian, have even set up their very own Comics Club, sure that it'll be the perfect screen once the time comes for them to save the world. Between them and glory is Petra, Aldo's 7-year-old cunning, determined little sister. One dark, stormy night things get complicated when a one-eyed cat shows up at their front door. They decide to adopt him and name him Odino, completely unaware that inside the kitten hides his namesake: the great, mighty, hot-tempered Norse god, whose final battle, Ragnarök, is about to begin.

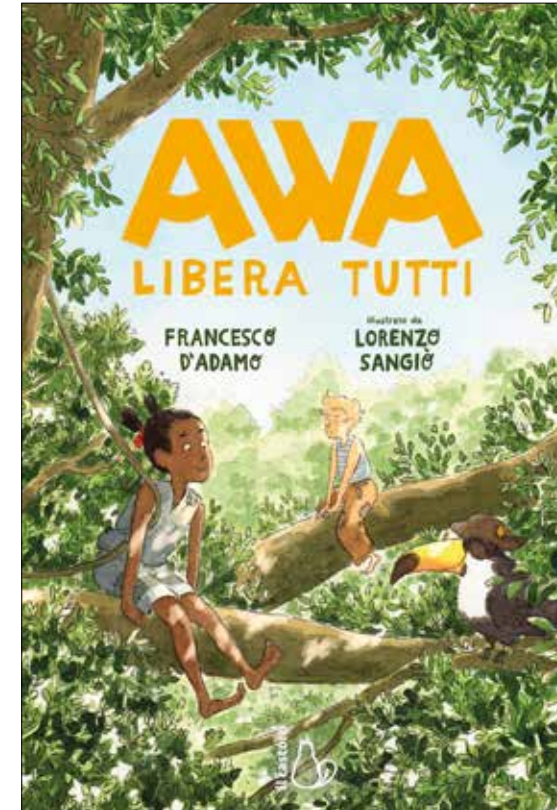

A four-volume series perfect for lovers of mythology and cats, and for those who don't know that they're heroes.

AWA FREE THEM ALL!

by Francesco D'Adamo
illustrations by Lorenzo Sangiò

The Village of the Free Minds, a series of gangways and stilts built above tall, ancient baobab trees, is inhabited by girls and boys who fight to defend children in danger. The great chief is called Awa: a fierce little girl as tiny and strong as a coffee bean. One day they receive a strange request for help from the sea, from a ghost ship: children are kept prisoners and forced to work! It's time to save them!

Girls and boys all over the world, unite! Awa needs you, the world needs you!

The perfect novel for anyone who loves adventure and who defends the weak.

WEATHER FOR BEASTS

story by Francesco D'Adamo illustrations by Ste Tirasso script by Andrea Fontana

It's Christmas Eve and a snowstorm is raging in an abandoned industrial area on the outskirts of town. Johnny and his older brother Othello have agreed to free an old warehouse from some stray dogs to earn some money. But when Othello suffers a fall from the roof that leaves him unconscious, Johnny realises he's on his own. A run-down cell phone, the other one broken in the fall, wild dogs (or wolves?) lying in wait for him at the door and the snowstorm raging all around. How will "frail Johnny" survive?

THE CURSED GAME

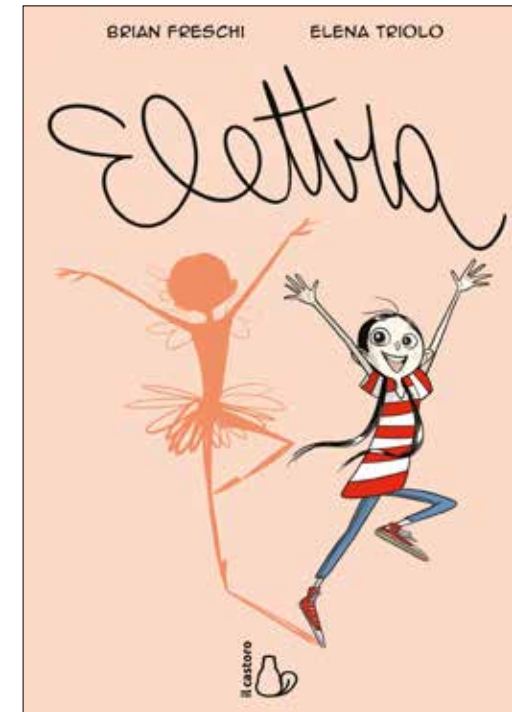

by Brian Freschi
illustrations by Albhey Longo

Summer in the city can be boring, as Ethan, Alma, Cupcake and Albe know all too well. But everything changes when they come across a weird, dusty old board game. And all their long-hidden fears and anxieties suddenly come true. In order to defeat the game's curses, they must win a series of challenges, support each other and figure out who they really are. And, especially, grow up.

Board games, curses, a group of friends ready to face anything: Jumanji meets Stranger Things.
