Children's hands treat animals with small and sturdy band-aid sliders

Cornelia Boese, Iris Blanck

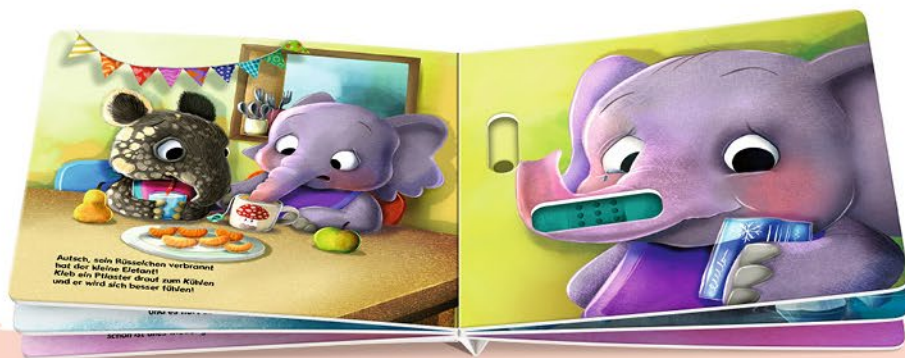

Stick a Colorful Band-Aid on It!

Board Book Ages 24 month + | 14 Pages

First-aid for the little ones! Important everyday topic of comforting

With cute illustrations and catchy rhymes

All baby animals in this cute board book have a boo-boo! So that it doesn't hurt so much, small children's hands can help to treat the ailments on each page. The koala has tumbled off the sofa, the seal has got a bump, and the cat has a scratch on its paw. The rabbit has a blister on his foot and the elephant has scalded his trunk. What to do now? Sturdy sliders make a colorful band-aid appear on the boo-boo. With catchy rhymes to talk along and comfort the child.

Sturdy lift and slide features enable small hands to brush the animals' teeth

Cornelia Boese, Iris Blanck

Brush Your Teeth Squeaky Clean!

Board Book Ages 24 month + | 14 Pages

A fun take on a daily chore

Iris Blanck's amusing illustrations are the perfect complement to Cornelia Boese's cheeky rhymes

What has the tiger got stuck between his teeth? Oh dear: the beaver's incisors are all dirty from too much puddle water! And the hippo's chops have got grassy green spots. There's only one thing for it: it's tooth-brushing time! Grab your brush and help the animals to clean their teeth. Up and down, left and right – and bingo! All their teeth are nice and shiny again.

Board Book Ages 6–9 month + | 12 Pages

Did you know that babies are best able to see high-contrast black and white?

From 2 months on, they see contrasts and primary colors.

These books with clear contrasts and primary colours fold out and stand up. This is the ideal way to help your baby enjoy tummy time!

The ten high-contrast pictures are perfectly matched to the retinal development of babies from birth and offer a fun way for parents and babies to spend time together.

Five pages of patterns and five pages of cute animals give every baby the opportunity to find the image that appeals to them most.

Good Night and Sweet Dreams

Board Book Ages 24 month + | 50 Pages

An anthology of three beautiful and timeless bedtime stories – perfect as a gift

Three bedtime stories in one volume! In "Little Darling, Good Night", your little darling is gently accompanied into the realm of dreams. The lovingly rhymed text can also be sung to the melody of Johannes Brahms' lullaby "Good Evening, and Good Night", transforming the book into a lullaby. In "Sleep Well, Little Mouse", children accompany the tired mouse in the forest house as it goes through its bedtime routine. Brush the teeth, put on the pyjamas, a last kiss goodnight ... and soon the little eyes fall shut. In "Sleep Well, Little Bat", the most beloved cuddly toy must first be found before bedtime finally arrives for the bat family.

Still Awake

Board Book Ages 24 month + | 16 Pages

A fun cardboard picture book with charming rhymes to say goodnight and modern, funny illustrations with a hilarious twist

By Sabine Praml, author of the >> bestselling "Seven Little Hares" series

Bedtime on the farm... is it?

The lambs snuggle up to their moms, the kittens slumber in the hayloft. Anna checks on her animals and says goodnight to them all. But when she wants to slip under the blanket in her bed herself, she realizes that little baby animals are not as easy to put to bed as she thought!

When Seven Little Hares Race Across the Playground

Board Book Ages 24 month + | 12 Pages

Playing on the playground: an indispensable part of a child's everyday life

Lovingly rhymed and humorously illustrated

Swinging, climbing, seesawing, and tipping sand out of cups with gusto. The seven little hares are on the playground and are having a blast! Sliding elements and turning wheels allow children to rock the seesaw, slide down the slide, turn the merry-go-round – all the favourite playground equipment appears and can be moved. As always, the text is lovingly rhymed by Sabine Praml and the enchanting illustrations by Christiane Hansen are once again full of detail and humour.

Little Rat Kwiik Empowers.
 Because I Am Important

Board Book Ages 24 month + | 12 Pages

The first cardboard picture book by bestselling author and podcaster Lars Amend and Anahita Affirmations for children are in great demand
 Meets the needs of the target group: "Strengthen my child – even more so in these times"

Hey, here comes Kwiik! This little rat dares to be different and makes children strong. The large, elaborately designed picture book shows scenes all about mindfulness and self-love. Five strong beliefs are presented on the colorful and exciting double pages. They provide inspiration for everyday life and are understandable even for the very youngest. Small search tasks provide plenty of variety and fun! Children learn important skills in a playful way: they are encouraged to see themselves in a positive light, to recognize their strengths and to say them out loud.

Little Rat Kwiik Empowers.
 Because I Am Different

Picture Book Ages 3 + | 32 Pages

Successful author teams up with pedagogical professional to stand up for self-care, spirituality, and mindfulness
Beautiful picture book that offers encouragement
 Stories appeal to readers of all ages and convey important messages

The little rat Kwiik is very different from the other rats. While the others enjoy digging in the garbage and like it dirty and dark, Kwiik prefers to sniff fragrant flowers, loves to dance and enjoys the sunshine. Kwiik is constantly laughed at by the others for this. And although the little rat will do anything to fit in, it is quite clear that Kwiik is simply different. But is that actually a bad thing? Isn't it also a gift to be different, to be very special? A wonderful picture book that encourages young and old to love themselves, be mindful, and offers them a lot of courage.

The five beliefs:

- ♥ I am smart.
- ♥ I am strong.
- ♥ I am loved.
- ♥ I am safe.
- ♥ I can achieve anything I want in life.

Do it like Kwiik! Be different, very special.
 And stand up for it. Because YOU are YOU!
 And you are important!

The Forest Dwellers and The Secret Language of Animals

Picture Book Ages 4 + | 32 Pages

A remarkable story about love of animals and friendship

Fantasy meets exciting nature facts

From bestselling author Carina Wohlleben

Cori and Ylva are forest dwellers and very best friends. They live in an ancient beech forest, are quite small, quite brave, and quite curious. And they want nothing more than to be able to talk to the animals of the forest. When Cori and Ylva meet a jay one day, a huge adventure begins for the tiny forest creatures and they meet lots of new friends along the way. Their path leads the woodland creatures across a rocky valley to a farm and finally to a large clearing. And there they finally realize that if we listen to the animals with our hearts and look closely, we can also speak their language.

Malte & Obkar and the Luck of Having Bad Luck

Picture Book Ages 5 + | 56 Pages

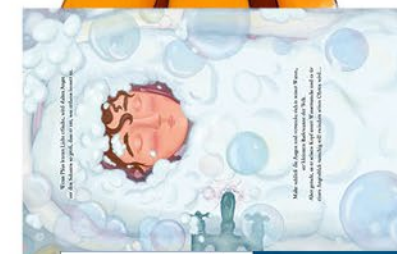

Scaredy-cat Malte Zierden and city pigeon Obkar tell their story about a special friendship and the courage to face one's fears

Humorous, touching, profound – a picture book for everyone!

A boy lives in a house between many houses, in an apartment above many apartments. Malte. At first glance, Malte seems completely ordinary. But what no glance reveals: Malte is afraid. Afraid of the shadows out there. He only feels safe in his bathtub, the smallest bathtub in the world. And it is here, on a far too ordinary day, that something quite extraordinary happens to Malte: he meets his best friend. Obkar, the pigeon. And who would have thought that this little creature would lead Malte on a very special journey, his greatest journey: the journey to his fear. And to himself.

What Are the Colors of the Rainbow?

Why Colors Are Waves and Why We All Have Our Very Own Reality

Non Fiction Ages 7+ | 112 Pages

Bestselling non-fiction picture book series that combines science and art

Two award-winning friends show how a small question can lead to comprehensive knowledge

About light, waves, and love: Why our world is so beautifully colorful

Mai Thi Nguyen-Kim and Marie Meimberg have combined again all their knowledge in answers and pictures in this fascinating non-fiction picture book. You will understand the colours in which the rainbow shines for you and what this has to do with light, waves, and excited cones. You will understand: This seemingly small question is connected to our brains, to clown mantis shrimps, and bananas. Because bananas do have a banana shape. But they don't actually have a banana colour. This seemingly small question is full of surfing dreams, boxing pains, and reality perception. That's why it's also connected to seagulls and otters. And to us humans. To whom we love. And to how colourful our love can be.

Dimiter Inkiow

Dimiter Inkiow was born in 1932 in Haskovo, southern Bulgaria. He studied mining engineering, then theatre studies and graduated as a director. He wrote numerous stage plays until he was banned from writing because of a comedy.

He relocated to Germany in 1965. Altogether Inkiow has published over 100 books which have been translated into 25 languages. His books from the series "Me and My Sister Klara" have become modern classics. In 1997, the State University of Theatre and Film Arts in Sofia awarded him with an honorary doctorate. Dimiter Inkiow died in September 2006.

Me and My Sister Klara Will Crack You Up!

Hilarious brother and sister stories – when it comes to sibling pranks with those two, it never rains but it pours!

Heart-warming short stories that show how children see the world and sometimes cause chaos with the best of intentions

Going to bed in water wings, learning swear words from a parrot or cleaning their teeth for a month in advance; these are the kinds of ideas only Klara and her little brother could ever come up with! Klara's brother tells such mischievous stories about the funniest pranks in the world that readers will be roaring with laughter – a joy to read for adults and children of all ages.

Rights of the series sold to: Argentina, Bolivia, Chile, China, Colombia, Montenegro, Panama, Paraguay, Peru, Poland, Russia, Serbia, South Korea

Why Is This Series So Special and Beloved?

The stories are characterized by their loving look at children's logic and the often unforeseen consequences that result. When Klara and her brother decide to give away only the best, they and the readers learn an important lesson about generosity and appreciating the things we have.

Dimiter Inkiow's narrative style is lively and engaging, making the stories of Klara and her brother a pleasure not only for children but also for adults. The stories offer plenty of reasons to laugh and think and are a wonderful way to teach children values such as empathy, creativity, and family cohesion.

How Come We Offer Stories That Have Not Been Offered Before?

In the 1980s and early 1990s, Dimiter Inkiow had published stories from the Me and My Sister Klara series with various publishers. These stories had not been available for many years up until now. In 2024, the Dimiter Estate decided to transfer all rights to these stories (more than 100 shorts) to Dressler Verlag's rights portfolio.

Mats and Mathilde 1. A Great Friendship

Read Aloud Book Ages 5+ | 256 Pages

Great heroes: Mats and Mathilde's journey to fairytale places inspires children to see the world with marvellous eyes

Touchingly written: Author Christian Wunderlich tells of courage, hope, and the home we find in others

Where there's a mum, there's a home. And Mathilde knows that her mum – the girl who brought her to life – lives in the place where the sun sets. So the scarecrow sets off on an adventurous journey, together with Mats Piep. Mats is a swarrow (half swallow, half sparrow) and has missed the bird migration south because of his fear of flying. On their journey, the two experience many colourful adventures in fantastic places, and soon the bird and the scarecrow become the very best of friends. They save each other time and time again, lose and find each other again, and no matter what happens, they never give up. But in the end, will they find what they are looking for?

The Land of Light 3. The Sleeping Dragon's Secret

Read Aloud Book Ages 5 + | 240 Pages

How can it be that there is suddenly no more light in the Glimmering Forest? And even the Blinking Moor has suddenly stopped blinking. Day by day it gets darker in the Land of Light ... Dark wings fly through towns and forests and make the light disappear. But where do these sinister creatures come from? And how can they be driven away again? Everyone is faced with a mystery and is looking for answers, including lively Karla and dreamy Prince Frederik. They set off into the western wilderness where they have to hike through the cold ice caves to the dark northern mountains. The two best friends soon realise that the dark wings are not the only problem. Because high in the north, far beyond the ice caves, an even greater threat is awakening ... Will Karla and Frederik manage to save the Land of Light?

"We are one, you and I. There is nothing you can hide from me, Cahira."

A gigantic image of a snake stretched across my left arm. The filigree head pointed towards my hand, while the long, scaled body wrapped around my forearm up to my shoulder and disappeared onto my back. The fine patterns on the snake's body looked so lifelike.

This can't be ... this is ... impossible! My thoughts became knotted and I found it increasingly difficult to breathe.

"Don't panic, it's all right. I'm not your enemy."

Did that come ... from the snake on my skin?

I felt the warm tingling sensation again. When I looked at my arm again, I recognised the snake moving on my skin. Slowly, the animal slithered along the inside of my arm towards my shoulder so that it could look at me with its bright, poisonous green eyes.

"My name is Natrix."

New Adult Fiction Ages 16+ | 400 Pages

Magical and addictive high fantasy romance

A courageous heroine who must defeat the ruthless king of the elves.

For all fans of Lexi Ryan and Holly Black

In Lavandria, people live in eternal darkness – including 20-year-old Astoria. Only once a year do the gates to the solar kingdom of the Sidhe, a magical nation of elves, open. Whoever is brave enough can fight for the sun crown of the young king Ronas during these rare hours, because victory would bring the light back to the people. But when Astoria and Ronas face off in a fierce duel, the otherwise ruthless king suddenly becomes hesitant to kill her ...

Sangua-Clan 2. Blood Rival

New Adult Fiction Ages 16+ | 400 Pages

Captivating story transports readers back into the dark & mystical atmosphere of Naples

Vampire romance full of spice & magic in a fascinating underworld

During the decisive battle in the catacombs of Naples, the vampire hunters have managed to capture a member of the enemy clan. Luc, of all people, who lost his sister to the blood-hungry Sangua many years ago, is tasked with supervising the rebellious prisoner Cas and breaking his will. But the more time the two spend together, the clearer it becomes that they are not as fundamentally different as they first thought. Luc begins to doubt the hunters' motives for the first time and sees more than just a beast in his counterpart. A tender love develops between the two, which they must keep secret at all costs. But is their affection strong enough to overcome their differences?

Literally Love 2. Papercut Feeling

New Adult Fiction Ages 16+ | 400 Pages

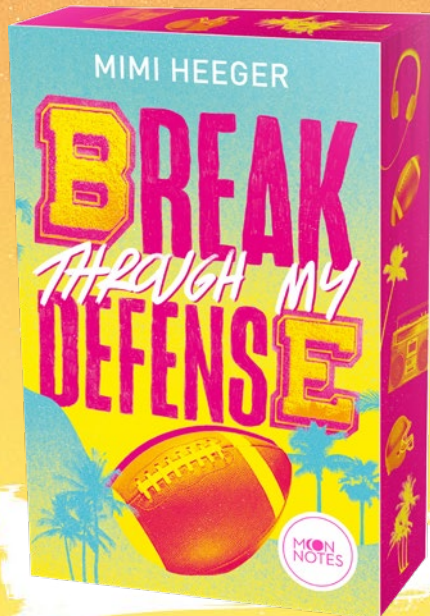

Sensitively illuminates the under-represented spectrum of asexuality

Exciting insight for readers into the world of publishing

Told alternately from his and her perspective

Melodea's new work colleague Lorne surprisingly turns out to be the guy she recently tried to pick up and then ditched at the last minute. Of all people! She tries to avoid him as best she can, but that's almost impossible when you work at the same publishing house. But avoidance is easier than telling him that she likes him but isn't attracted to him. Not like this. To be more precise: not to anyone.

Lorne no longer understands the world. Melodea seems genuinely interested in him and then drops him without a word of explanation. He would like to forget her, but when the two of them are sent on a reading tour together for the book by successful influencer Amanda Darling, the avoidance becomes increasingly difficult and the feelings more intense ...
