Vampires, blood and love: a thrilling and powerful romantasy set in a dark, magical city.

North of Italy, 1898. Clelia is the only woman enrolled in Medical School, and her knowledge of human anatomy raises more than a few eyebrows. Most people find her fascination with death inappropriate — if not suspicious. But Clelia doesn't mind. Death has never bothered her. For years, she's been helping her vampire stepmother, Lucretia, hunt for prey: violent men who harm women. Until one night, after a hunt, she crosses paths with Brando Ferraris, a reporter who is convinced there's a vampire stalking Turin. He's determined to expose the truth in his next article. To protect Lucretia from becoming prey rather than hunter, Clelia must get close to Brando. But knowing your enemy is a double-edge sword — and Clelia will soon have to choose which side she's really on.
