Happy 40th Anniversary!

UTE
LITERARY AGENT
— 40 YEARS —

This year the agency celebrates a milestone anniversary. We are 40 years old and this makes us feel especially proud. The fact that a cultural company has had such a long history, has weathered the storms and has reached its 40th anniversary stronger than ever, has its merits.

Our formula for getting this far: a fantastic, well-cohesive team, hard work, transparency and honesty, hard work, amazing and unique clients who have placed their trust in us all these years and others who have come to us more recently, setting ourselves new challenges, not taking anything for granted, offering a service that goes beyond the simple sale of rights, doing things personally and in our own way, a lot of hard work. Among many other things.

This 2024 we will take the opportunity to celebrate, to review these 40 years and also to project the next years to come – as we do, on the other hand, every new year, although this one perhaps more publicly.

On a personal note, a curious fact: in February it will be 24 years that I joined the agency, and 24 years are the years that Ute worked here from 1984 until she left us in 2008. It's a bit of a peculiar calculation but it has made me reflect...

Time goes by but the energy and desire to take our project forward are still intact and in fact they are more powerful and alive than ever. We are counting on all of you in this special year: here we go 2024!

Schneiderbuch · April 2024 · 32 p.

Anyone can fly with the right friends

Adelheid is afraid of heights. Just looking over the edge of the nest makes her feel dizzy and nauseous. But she would love to simply soar into the air like the other eagles. That's why Mum enrolls her in Mrs Hummel's flying school. Together with Konstantin the crane and Hilda the turtle (just because you don't have wings doesn't mean you can't try ...), Adelheid starts practising how to fly. But it is only when a little chick gets into danger that the three flying students surpass themselves. Because together they can do much more than alone!

- How to overcome fears together and with humour: not every problem is as big as it seems.
- Fun for kids and adults to read aloud
- With loving details and side stories

To this day, Amelia Earhart remains an icon of the women's rights movement. There couldn't be a more fitting patron for the fifth Mouse Adventure!

For the mice, the boundaries of their vegetable garden are the boundaries of the world. But one of them discovers a picture of a giant cat from Africa. How can she get there? With the help of a mouse pilot, the mouse builds a new type of flying machine. The colony wants to put the pioneer in her place and maliciously destroys her machine. But in the end, the cunning mouse sets off on her adventure after all. On this journey, she encounters not only gentle giant cats, but also a human woman who shares her passion: Amelia Earhart.

Everyone Wants a Picture

- But Not Just Any Picture

Written by Dieter Böge, illustrated by Benjamin Gottwald

Aladin · March 2024 · 48 p.

A smart story in an unmistakable comic style that makes you pause and smile

Der Kakadu wünscht sich ein Bild von sich

von einem Maler.

There's the ant who finally wants to have a picture in which only he can be seen. There's the cockatoo who dreams of being portrayed by a famous painter. Or the frog who wants a picture of himself as a "great catch". Familiar feelings that we, humans, also recognise when we strive to show ourselves at our best and -intentionally or unintentionally- betray our deepest desires in the process.

Der Frosch wünscht sich ein Bild von sich

When I Feel Brave

ID #40668

Prestel · 2024 · 40 p.

A story about fear and courage

What you don't know can be scary. Britta Teckentrup explores what it means to be brave. She tells the story of a girl who walks through a dark wood all on her own and is startled by a bear: at first, the girl is afraid of the bear, but as she allows herself to get closer to it, the bear becomes her companion, and eventually even her friend.

The perfect starting-point for a discussion about fear, with children of play school or primary school age. It shows how paralysing your fears can sometimes be, but also how good it feels when you confront and overcome them.

When I See Red

A gorgeous and timely meditation on anger

The heroine of this story feels her anger like a storm in a dark forest. It sweeps her away, and she thunders and howls. She pours down her emotions like sheets of rain. This book illustrates many aspects of anger that are often hard to articulate –how overwhelming it is, how isolating, even scary. But it also shows anger to be a source of power and an agent for change. Teckentrup's impactful, boldly colored paintings skillfully evoke the way intense anger can take us on an emotional journey, one that can be both exhausting and affirming.

Hats off!

This masterfully illustrated picture book is also a unique cultural history of hats

Headwear serves not only as decoration or protection. It is a message about its wearer, for example about her or his religion, place in a hierarchy, attitude or profession. Over time headgear has become tradition, symbol for movements, epochs and cultures. They have all kinds of forms, colours and materials. This book introduces a variety of people and goes on a journey through the cultural history of headwear.

#01 Why do stars shine?

To understand why stars shine and what this has to do with dancing particles, air pressure and heat. With the carbon cycle of life, CO2 and plants. With the formation of the universe, our Milky Way and our Earth.

#02 Are dinos really all dead?

To understand why dinos are still alive and what this has to do with the history of the earth. ### Inspiring: an eye-opening source for lively discussions

Yes, some truly terrible things are happening in the world: war and catastrophes everywhere, not to mention the climate crisis. These concerns don't altogether pass children by. We don't want to give them a false sense of security, so how do we talk about it? Rike Drust has the answer: Look at the people helping!

This book introduces us to 25 people, who contribute to making the world a better place. From the paediatrician in a crisis-torn region to the rubbish bin collector and the hospital clown we learn what they like about their work, why they chose their profession and what sometimes bothers them.

- Honest, funny, heart-warming – a book about the many opportunities we have to make the world a little better
- Authentic: over 1,500 people contributed stories for this book
- Funny: lots of little marginal scenes and heaps of insider knowledge

The Sorceress's Daughter

Written by Paul Maar, illustrated by Hannes Maar

ID #040836

Oetinger · 2024 · 96 p.

Paul Maar's new fantasy book takes young readers into a colourful world full of magic, magical creatures and exciting adventures

Mrs Schmitt is a wicked sorceress as they say in the book: she is bad-tempered and mean and loves to conjure up bad things like floods, forest fires or erasers that tear holes in exercise books. Her 11-year-old daughter Fizzi is quite different. But above all, Fizzi has nothing to do with magic. "That can't be right!" exclaims Mrs Schmitt and whisks Fizzi off to the netherworld - and her eternally nagging husband along with her. But the world in between isn't so scary after all and Fizzi soon discovers that she too harbours little magical powers.

Paul Maar is one of Germany's most popular and awarded authors, considered a modern classic.

«Ich helfe Male. Ja, ich bin ein Mensch», sagte Male. «Du hast Zauberkräfte», sagte Frau Mahme. «Was willst du also von mir? Etwas, was du nicht selber zaubern kannst!»
 «Ja» Male nickte und hielt Frau Mahme den Koffer dicht vor den Kopf.
 Sie hatte das Gefühl, dass Frau Mahme nicht mehr gut sehen konnte. Ihre Angipfel waren nicht weiß, sondern dunkelgelb, ihre Pupillen klein wie Stocknadelöge.
 Male verneigte sich jetzt auch ganz tief, wie vorher der Fuchs, und sagte: «Das ist mein Vater. Ich hätte gerne, dass er endlich wieder ein Mensch ist und wir dann gemeinsam zurückkehren können in die Menschenwelt.»
 «Selbst», sagte Frau Mahme und wogte den schuppigen Kopf hin und her. «Menschen haben einen Koffer zum Vater!»
 «Eben nicht!», sagte Male. «Deshalb sollst du ihn bitte zurückverwandeln in einen Menschen mit zwei Beinen.»
 Jetzt steckte die Schilfkörbe, auf der Frau Mahme stand, ganz, ganz langsam den Kopf aus dem Panzer.

«Kann sie nicht, das kann sie nicht!», kicherte sie. «Sie hat viel zu wenig Zauberkräfte. Ist ja auch noch jung. Keine hundert Jahre alt.»
 «Großmutter Mahme spricht fast nie», flüsterte der Fuchs Male zu. «Pass sie mit dir redet, ist etwas ganz Besonderes.»
 Die alte Schilfkörbe, die der Fuchs Großmutter Mahme genannt hatte, wachte sich am Male.

Was sollte sie tun? Sie legte den Koffer flach auf den Boden und hoffte, der Troll würde ihn übersehen.
 Aber da hörte sie auch schon das laute Stampfen des Trolls hinter sich. Er hatte den Koffer gleich entdeckt und versetzte ihm wohl einen starken Tritt. Denn schon flog der Koffer im hohen Bogen aus dem Schilf-Gebiet.
 Male hörte ihren Vater noch singen: «Aua! Härte! Landung nicht im Gras. Macht keinen Spaß!»
 Dann war er still.
 Der Troll tastete anscheinend um sich. Sie hörten ihn im Gras nach ihnen suchen. Dabei brüllte er: «Wo seid ihr! Ich krieg euch! He, sagt was!»
 Diesen Gefallen taten ihm Male und der Fuchs natürlich nicht. Sie schlichen vorsichtig immer weiter von der Trollstimme weg.
 Der Troll war inzwischen auf der anderen Seite des Schilf-Gebiets herausgestommen. Der unsichtbare Fuchs und die unsichtbare Male beobachteten ihn, wie er jetzt den Bach besauste, mit beiden Füßen ins Wasser sprang, dass es hoch aufspritzte, und offenbar Gefallen daran fand.

Rizzoli · March 2024 · 256 p.

For all those 'who know that words are alive and need our care'

Try to imagine a world where words do not belong to everyone, but are strange little creatures that live in cages and are bought at the market. A world where only the rich can afford the luxury of using strange and complicated terms, no one can read and write, school does not exist and neither do books. A world where many things cannot be said, simply because you do not have the words to say them.

This is the world of Rim, a curious little girl who, like the other inhabitants of her village, does not even suspect that things might be different. Everything changes, however, when she comes across a bizarre old man dressed in rags and without teeth. His name is Witzold and he is about to drag her into an incredible adventure. Among giant watermelons, powerful sorcerers and magic spells, Rim will discover what terrible secret is hidden in the past of her kingdom and in the highest tower of the castle. But above all she will encounter many, many words, starting with the most important of all: freedom.

Would you give up LOVE to stop SUFFERING?

Jonah has recently moved to Aster and can finally go to school like the others, without hiding his yellow eyes behind dark lenses, and feel accepted despite the folded flower on his skin, a symbol of the mark of pain. In Aster, in fact, the Children of Astaroth, people who can take away negative feelings or bestow special talents, are not persecuted, on the contrary, they are privileged. Here Jonah meets Judith, a girl with whom he shares a passion for art. The two discover the strength of feelings they have never felt before, but she hides an immense pain: her father has disappeared suddenly, leaving her with an emptiness that makes it impossible for her to surrender to such an overwhelming love. Jonah could erase Judith's pain, but in doing so he would also erase any memory of their love born between the folds of that suffering. Fate then forces Judith to make an impossible choice: remember and continue to love Jonah or forget and choose the more carefree life that Nate, who has always been her safe haven, could give her.

A story to break taboos on consent in the LGBTQ+ community

17-year-old Jay wakes up in a park, battered and confused and unable to remember what happened the night before. But he has his suspicions. His best friend takes him to the hospital, and Jay is referred to the sexual assault unit. At first Jay refuses to believe that he was raped.

However soon Jay becomes overwhelmed when the weight of what has happened starts to dawn on him. He wants answers, and his search leads him down a dark and dangerous path. When Jay attends group counselling sessions, he meets Rain, who encourages Jay in his quest for justice. Could his exboyfriend, Jackson be involved?

Prague is called the Golden City, but all that 18-year-old Mila can see is grey. Mila has a special gift: she can foresee death. Humans that will soon die lose all color. Desperately, she hopes to find her roots in Prague to get rid of this curse. However, her gift soon involves her in the war between light and darkness and she learns that heaven and hell are a lot different than she has imagined. Tariel, the ambassador of light has the job to eliminate Mila as he is convinced that she endangers the balance of the world. Asher, on the other side, wants to use Mila's gift for the dark side. But he surely didn't plan to fall in love with Mila ...

“Clever, sparkling, and perfectly indulgent, Swordcrossed feels like stepping into a party already in full swing.

Everything is possible; everything is wondrous.

This is fantasy romance at its very best.”

—Grace D. Li, New York Times bestselling author of Portrait of a Thief

Mattinesh Jay, dutiful heir to his struggling family business, needs to hire an experienced swordsman to serve as best man for his arranged marriage. Sword-challenge at the ceremony could destroy all hope of restoring his family's wealth, something that Matti has been trying—and failing—to do for the past ten years. What he can afford, unfortunately, is part-time con artist and full-time charming menace Luca Piere.

Luca, for his part, is trying to reinvent himself in a new city. All he wants to do is make some easy money and try to forget the crime he committed in his hometown. He didn't plan on being blackmailed into giving sword lessons to a chronically responsible—and inconveniently handsome—wool merchant like Matti.

However, neither Matti's business troubles nor Luca himself are quite what they seem. How many lies are you prepared to strip away, when the truth could mean losing everything you want?

A mysterious murder shakes New York. The victim is, of all people, a member of the powerful Red Umbrella Society, whose members supposedly have special abilities. The last thing Skadi needs is to be dragged into this, because she has enough problems of her own. She and her brother owe money to an unscrupulous underground boss and have to do risky jobs for him. But then, during one of these assignments, Skadi stumbles upon a dead body and becomes the target of the young and extremely attractive investigator David Bell. He is convinced of her guilt and does everything in his power to catch her. But someone is interested in protecting Skadi. Someone to whom she owes more than she would like and who demands a dark favour in return.

Wacky story about the phenomenon of fan culture

The actor Allan is stuck in a crisis: He wants to shed his image as a rom-com star and finally tackle some serious character roles. Alas, it's Allan the rom-com star that his fans love! When three fangirls kidnap him, chaos ensues. They force Allan to act out scenes from his films – according to their rules. Quickly realizing he can't escape from them, he starts to sabotage his kidnappers' plans. But there's something he didn't think of: Worse than being adored by his fans is being despised by them...

A secret bestselling author meets a disgraced actor

Student by day - bestselling author by night.

Livia writes super-successful romance novels under the pseudonym A. Lovelace. And now her book is to be made into a film! The only catch: Julian Collins, of all people, the fallen star, will play the male lead. It is Julian's last chance to save his career. He doesn't like the fact that he has to act in a "trashy romance" to do so. Livia also doesn't care much for the arrogant Julian.

But then Julian turns down the role and outright the film is on the brink of cancellation. Livia is determined to convince Julian. However, falling in love with him was never part of the script ...

The Literature Behind the Lyrics

From name-checking Romeo and Juliet in "You Belong with Me" to The Great Gatsby allusions in "Happiness", Taylor Swift's lyrics are packed with literary connections. Make sure you're catching them all with this expert guide to the novels, poems, and plays that influenced her songwriting.

Let a literature professor and a musical theater star guide you through the Swift canon. Learn what "New Romantics" has to do with the old Romantics, which Gothic novel inspired "Tolerate It," how to spot Taylor's many The Great Gatsby references, and more!

With full-color illustrations guiding you through the literary eras of Dr. Swift (yes, she has an honorary Ph.D.), it's a perfect gift for the Swiftie in your life. Packed with fun facts, entertaining analysis, and recommended reading that fans will love.

- FOR DEVOTED FANS AND NEW FANS ALIKE: The primary audience is women in their 20s and 30s who grew up with Taylor Swift, but the Swift-curious will find this a valuable introduction that allows them to join the conversation.
- SMART BUT APPROACHABLE: A seasoned teacher, Feder is able to quickly explain classic literature (and references to The Great Gatsby, the Arthurian legend, Emily Dickinson, Rebecca, Alice in Wonderland, Gothic literature, and more) in a way that's fun and friendly for casual readers but precise enough for classroom use.

In 1972, the young Ahmadjan came to Germany from Afghanistan to become an artist. What follows is a colorful odyssey; a profoundly moving life between art and war, homeland and new beginnings, flight from strife and responsibility for family members left behind in Afghanistan. Through it all, he never stops searching for happiness. Based on the 800-year-old Persian saga The Conference of the Birds by Farududdin Attar, the author also portrays the confrontation with one's own identity.

- Gripping, touching, humorous biography
- Afghanistan's politics from a personal aspect
